Principal's Corner

Hello St. Joachim Community,
It was wonderful to return to school last week after a long winter vacation. School is so much more fun for me when the students are on campus!
Despite this unconventional school year, the students are still learning and growing, whether they are at school in person or online. One thing this year has shown me is that students are resilient and full of hope and optimism for the future. I am so proud of how the students at St. Joachim have adapted to many changes as the months have gone by: starting the year online, transitioning to in-class learning, wearing masks, remembering to bring a lunch each day, washing hands and using hand sanitizer, social distancing, coming back to school after a very long break, and adapting to quarantines if necessary. SJS students are amazing!
A huge thank you also goes out to each parent for rolling with the changes along with the kids! Your support for your children and their education is unsurpassed!
I have great hope for the end to this virus and a return to gathering together as a school family. I pray each day for a brighter tomorrow. Have a wonderful week!
